

INDIA PALE ALES

The India Pale Ale category is one that has grown so much in style over its existence but more noticeably in the last 15 years or so. This line up was quite good as our local market is putting out some humdingers all across the board from paler and more bitter west coast IPA's to the super creamy and tropical style IPAs. No matter which you prefer there are so many to pick from today that it made picking winners kind of sad, but the best pick was Banded Peak's Summit Seeker this year. Dave Gingrich

SAUVIGNON BLANC

Oh sauvignon blanc! What an awesome grape – one that had a relatively new archetype of expression and global home - New Zealand. Rife with gooseberry, bell pepper and cut grass, this neo-classic style has yielded ground to other global expressions. Perhaps ones that lack a little of the “intensity” found in New Zealand, but perhaps show off a little more restraint, a little more balance, and a little more quaffability. Discover sauvignon blanc all over again. Tom Firth
